LATIN

LAT 100Y Elementary Latin (5 Credits)
The Latin language has had an extraordinarily long life, from ancient Rome through the Middle Ages to nineteenth-century Europe, where it remained the language of scholarship and science. Even today it survives in the Romance languages that grew out of it and in the countless English words derived from Latin roots. This course prepares students to read Latin texts in any period or area of interest through a study of the fundamentals of classical Latin grammar and through practice in reading from a range of Latin authors. Some attention will also be given to Roman culture and Latin literary history. This is a full-year course and cannot be divided at midyear with credit for the first semester. Enrollment limited to 30.

LAT 330mr Topics: Advanced Readings in Latin Literature-Myths of Rome (4 Credits)
A study of the tradition of Roman story-telling, stressing the connections among myth, legend and history in narratives of the early city. Topics include the extent to which early Rome is part of the world of Greek myth; the process by which key statesmen and generals in the early legends came to represent the character of the noble families of later ages, and then to symbolize central Roman virtues; the development of these legendary and quasi-historical narratives into a "myth" of the Roman national character; the manipulation of traditional stories in the political and cultural disputes of later eras. Readings from Livy, Ovid, Vergil and Horace. Prerequisites: two courses at the 200 level or equivalent.
